Lesson Worksheet — Answers

Easy / Standard

1. D — adverb
2. Example: joyful / glad / cheerful (accept any valid synonym)
3. The dog's bone was buried in the garden.
4. personification
5. dont -> doesn't
6. Example: small / tiny (accept any valid antonym)
7. B — fox
8. recieved -> received
9. A and C (beautiful and enormous are adjectives; quickly is an adverb, jumped is a verb)
10. After lunch, we went to the park.
11. Example: frightened / afraid / terrified
12. B — The snow was as white as cotton
13. Me and him -> He and I
14. A and C (A has correct punctuation for direct speech; C has a correct question mark; B is missing a comma before the speech marks; D should end with a question mark)
15. Example: quiet / silent

Standard

16. D — pronoun
17. Example: gigantic / colossal / massive
18. She needed three things: pens, paper and a ruler.
19. Personification — the car is given the human-like action of "groaning", making it feel tired or reluctant, almost alive
20. was -> were
21. Example: stingy / mean / selfish
22. A — Although
23. Their -> They're
24. A and C (flock and herd are collective nouns; sheep and grass are not collective nouns in this sense)
25. The two dogs' bones were buried.
26. Example: challenging / demanding
27. B — The classroom was a zoo
28. should of -> should have
29. A and C (a semicolon correctly joins two related independent clauses without a conjunction; B incorrectly combines a semicolon with "and"; D uses a comma splice instead of a semicolon)
30. Example: modern / new

Standard / Hard

31. B) preposition
32. Example: whispered / murmured
33. My sister, who is older than me, plays tennis.

34. Personification — silence is given the physical ability to 'press down', making an abstract, intangible thing feel heavy and almost oppressive.
35. I -> me; after the preposition 'between', the object pronoun 'me' is needed, not 'I'.
36. Example: cowardly / timid
37. B — who
38. definately -> definitely; it comes from 'definite' plus '-ly', so it should contain 'finite', not 'finately'.
39. A and C ('news' and 'mathematics' look plural but are treated as singular nouns, so they take singular verbs).
40. She packed three items: a coat, her boots and a torch.
41. B — the shadows are given a deliberate, human-like movement.
42. Example: hastily / frantically
43. Example: fake / insincere
44. A and C (a semicolon alone can join two related complete sentences; it should not be paired with 'and', and a comma alone is not enough).
45. 'Who' is a relative pronoun here — it introduces a clause ('who called') that gives more information about 'the man'.

Standard

16. D — pronoun
17. Example: minuscule / microscopic
18. He needed one thing: courage.
19. Personification — the floorboards are given the human-like action of "groaning", making the house feel alive or unsettling
20. was -> were
21. Example: rude / impolite
22. A — Because
23. There -> They're
24. A and C (pack and team are collective nouns; wolves and ball are not)
25. The three cats' toys were scattered.
26. Example: straightforward / effortless
27. B — The playground was a market
28. could of -> could have
29. A and C
30. Example: defeat / loss

Standard / Advanced

31. Example: trudged / staggered
32. B — whose
33. seperate -> separate; remember there's 'a rat' in 'sep-a-rate' to recall the spelling.
34. Metaphor/personification — hope is compared to a small flame, suggesting it is fragile and could easily go out.
35. I -> me; after the preposition 'between', the object pronoun 'me' is needed.
36. My friend, who lives next door, moved away.
37. B — the fog is given a deliberate, creeping, human-like movement.

38. 'it' -> 'they'; since 'team' is treated as plural here ('were arguing'), the following pronoun should also be plural for consistency: 'they later apologised'.
39. A and C ('gymnastics' and 'news' look plural but are treated as singular nouns).
40. He needed three tools: a hammer, a saw and some nails.
41. Example: stingy / miserly
42. D — 'miserable' is the only word that means unhappy; the rest mean happy.
43. It is often misspelt because it sounds like it could contain 'ate'; the correct spelling keeps 'finite' from 'definite': definitely.
44. A and C ('fewer' is used for things you can count — biscuits and people; 'less' is correct for water, which cannot be counted individually).
45. Example: fake / false
