13. felt

14. remarkably — it modifies the adjective "simple", showing to what degree the plan was simple.

15. My cousin lives in Manchester.

Standard / Advanced

1. Noun — it names a thing (a period of relaxation), not an action.

2. Adverb — here it means "in good health" and describes how she is (a special case: "well" describing health acts adjective-like, but grammatically completes the verb "is" as a subject

6. Noun = clock; Verb = hung; Adjective = old; Adverb = loudly.

7. A and C (Quietly and slowly are adverbs, modifying "crept"; cautious is an adjective, fox is a noun, towards is a preposition)

11. "A hard test" — "hard" is an adjective describing the noun "test" (difficult). "She tried hard" — "hard" is an adverb describing how she tried (with effort).

12. Adjectives: gentle, frightened. Adverb: carefully — it tells us how the giant lifted the kitten (with care).

complement; accept "adjective" if well-justified as describing her state).

3. Verb — here "fast" means "to go without food", an action.

4. Verb — here "clean" is an instruction/action (to make something clean).

5. Adjective — it describes the noun "miss" (a miss that was close), not showing position relative to something.

8. In the first sentence "light" is an action word telling someone what to do (a verb); in the second it describes the noun "room" — what the room was like (an adjective).

9. Adjectives: determined, exhausted, icy. Adverb: finally — it modifies the verb "reached", showing when/in what order the climbers reached the summit.

10. Abstract noun = decision; Collective noun = committee; Adjective describing "decision" = controversial (final also describes decision, but controversial is the embedded one — accept either with justification).

13. Adjective = loud; comparative form used = louder; it relates to the noun "argument".

14. As a noun: "I heard a strange sound." As a verb: "That plan does not sound right." As an adjective: "It was sound advice."

15. Adjectives: brave, young, calm. Verb: worked. "Tirelessly" is an adverb; it modifies the verb "worked", describing how the nurse worked (without stopping).
