PassFrame tuition

Advanced Punctuation

Year 4 Pt 2 — Mark Scheme — Lesson Worksheet & Homework (tutor copy)

Lesson Worksheet — Answers

Easy / Standard

1. A — "I am hungry," said Tom.

2. "Please be quiet," whispered the librarian.

3. Lucy shouted, "Look out!"

4. "Where is my bag?" asked Mia.

5. He needed one thing: courage.

6. A — "That was amazing!" exclaimed the crowd.

7. The recipe needs: flour, sugar and eggs.

8. "Can I have a turn?" asked Sam.

9. A — "Well done," said the coach.

10. The teacher said, "Sit down, please."

11. A and C — There was only one answer: no. / He needed one thing: courage. (a colon introduces the single item; B, D and E wrongly use a comma or no punctuation)

12. "I can't believe it!" gasped Leo.

13. A — "Be careful!" warned Dad.

14. Bring these items: a pen, a book and a ruler.

15. "It's my turn!" shouted the boy.

Standard

1. "I think," said Anna, "we should leave now."

2. C — The match was cancelled: the pitch was flooded.

3. The concert finished late; the crowd was still cheering.

4. "Stop!" shouted the guard. "You can't go in there!"

5. There was one problem: nobody had the key.

6. "Sit down," said the teacher. "Now open your books."

7. B — Some pupils chose art; others chose drama.

8. "Why is the door locked?" asked the visitor.

9. A, C and E — She had a simple rule: always be kind. / Only one thing mattered now: speed. / There was one problem: nobody had the key. (B and D wrongly use a comma)

10. "Run!" yelled Jack. "The bull is loose!"

11. C — colon (introduces the list/explanation after the complete statement)

12. The river flooded the fields; farmers lost their crops.

13. "That's not fair," complained the boy. "I was here first."

14. Only one thing mattered now: speed.

15. B — semicolon (joins the two closely linked independent clauses without a conjunction)

Standard / Hard

1. A colon introduces a list, explanation or example after a complete statement, e.g. "She needed one thing: patience." A semicolon joins two closely related independent clauses without a conjunction, e.g. "The sky was grey; rain seemed likely."

6. C — The results were clear: the team had won by a wide margin.

11. The winners were: Jack, who came first; Priya, who came second; and Tom, who came third.

2. We visited three cities: Paris, France; Rome, Italy; and Berlin, Germany.

3. "I don't know," she said, looking away, "what to do next."

4. A — a colon (not a semicolon) should introduce the explanation. Correction: "He had one goal: to win the race."

5. Colon — "She loved reading books, magazines, newspapers: anything with words." The colon introduces a summarising phrase after the list.

7. A dash can be used for a more dramatic, informal pause with the same function as a colon: "There was only one solution — teamwork."

8. "Are you ready?" asked Mum. "Almost," said Leo, "just one more minute."

9. B — semicolon before, comma after: "The forecast was poor; however, the match went ahead."

10. B — it needs a colon instead of a comma: "There were two options: stay or leave."

12. An ellipsis shows words trailing off or being omitted (a hesitant pause); a dash shows an abrupt interruption or break in thought. Using an ellipsis: "I wasn't sure what to say, so I just..."

13. "That's incredible," she said. "I have never seen anything like it before."

14. A, C and E — all three wrongly place a colon directly after a linking verb ("are"/"include"); correct forms drop the colon (B is already correct; D is fine because "needed" is not a linking verb followed directly by the colon's subject)

15. "Get down!" shouted the coach. "Quickly, the ball is coming your way!"

Homework — Answers

Easy / Standard

1. A — "I am tired," said Ben.

2. "Please sit down," said the teacher.

3. Maya shouted, "Watch out!"

4. "Where are my shoes?" asked Leo.

5. He needed one thing: patience.

6. A — "That was brilliant!" exclaimed the fans.

7. The bag contained: a book, a pen and a ruler.

8. "Can I go first?" asked Zara.

9. A — "Great job," said the coach.

10. The nurse said, "Stay calm, please."

11. A and C — There was only one choice: yes. / He needed one thing: patience. (B, D and E wrongly use a comma or no punctuation)

12. "I can't find it!" cried Ruby.

13. A — "Watch out!" warned the lifeguard.

14. Pack these things: a hat, a coat and gloves.

15. "It's my go!" shouted the girl.

Standard

1. "I believe," said Omar, "we can win this."

2. C — The trip was cancelled: the coach broke down.

3. The film ended suddenly; the audience gasped.

4. "Stop!" yelled the referee. "That was a foul!"

6. "Line up," said the teacher. "Now walk quietly."

7. B — Some children chose football; others chose netball.

8. "Why is the gate shut?" asked the postman.

9. A, C and E — She lived by one motto: never give up. / Only one thing counted now: teamwork. / There was one snag: nobody had a torch. (B and

11. C — colon (introduces the list/explanation after the complete statement)

12. The storm knocked out the power; everyone lit candles.

13. "That's unfair," grumbled the boy. "I was next."

14. Only one thing counted now: teamwork.

D wrongly use a comma)

5. There was one snag: nobody had a torch.

10. "Duck!" shouted Sam. "The ball is flying at you!"

15. B — semicolon (joins the two closely linked independent clauses without a conjunction)

Standard / Advanced

1. C — There was one truth: she had lied. (the second part explains the first)

2. B — The bell rang loudly; the corridors filled with students. (two closely linked independent clauses)

3. A semicolon should not be used before a phrase that is not a full independent clause; a colon fits better since "to finish first" explains the aim. Correction: "He had one aim: to finish first."

4. "Wait," she whispered, "listen."

5. A colon is the standard, neutral choice to introduce an explanation; a dash creates a more dramatic or informal pause with the same function, e.g. "There was one hope — rescue."

6. We studied three subjects: maths, which everyone liked; science, which was harder; and art, which was optional.

7. "I can't reach it," he said, stretching up. "It's too high."

8. A — a colon (not a semicolon) should introduce an explanation after a complete statement. Correction: "The plan was simple: wait and watch."

9. Colon — "The shelf held toys, books, games: anything a child might want." The colon introduces a summarising phrase after the list.

10. C — The verdict was final: the jury had decided.

11. A dash gives a more dramatic, informal pause with the same function as a colon: "There was only one hope — rescue."

12. "Is it safe?" asked Ella. "Almost," said the guide, "just a bit further."

13. When "therefore" joins two independent clauses, use a semicolon before it and a comma after it. Correction: "The bridge was closed; therefore, we took the long route."

14. A, C and D — A needs a colon not a comma; C needs a colon/semicolon not a comma; D wrongly places a colon after the linking verb "are" (B and E are already correct)

15. "Move now!" shouted the diver. "Quickly, the current is pulling us!"