PassFrame tuition

Commas & Apostrophes

Year 5 Accelerated — Mark Scheme — Lesson Worksheet & Homework (tutor copy)

Lesson Worksheet — Answers

Easy / Standard

1. girl's

2. cat's

3. don't

4. A — Tom's bike (Toms' and Toms are wrong; a comma never replaces an apostrophe)

5. I'm

6. I need pens, pencils and rubbers.

7. She packed a hat, scarf, gloves and boots.

8. boy's

9. A, C and D (the teacher's, She's and Tom's are all correctly used; B should be "teacher's" for one teacher, E is missing the apostrophe)

10. missing letters (a contraction — the 'o' of 'not' is missing)

11. they'll

12. Yes, I would love to come.

13. teacher's

14. she's

15. After lunch, we went to the park.

Standard

1. two weeks' notice

2. a day's work

3. its (possessive, no apostrophe)

4. It's (contraction of 'it has')

5. Let's eat, Grandma.

6. The trophy, which the team won last year, was on display.

7. A, C and E (all use commas correctly to set off extra, non-essential relative clauses; B and D are restrictive clauses with no commas)

8. Alexis's (or Alexis')

9. The rain stopped; the sun came out.

10. In the end, everyone agreed to go home.

11. without a comma before 'and', it could wrongly suggest Lady Gaga and Beyoncé are the parents; adding a comma ('parents, Lady Gaga, and Beyoncé') makes clear they are three separate items

12. no commas because 'that the team won last year' identifies which trophy — it is essential/defining information

13. they'd — it looks identical to the contraction for 'they had'; context tells you which is meant

14. classes' trophy

15. no comma is needed before 'too' at the end of a sentence in modern usage (older style sometimes added one, but it is now optional/unnecessary)

Standard / Hard

1. Charles's (or Charles')

2. Mum and Dad's car

6. The dog's bone was buried in the garden's flower bed.

7. ladies'

11. the summer of '99

12. the first has no commas because the clause is defining/restrictive (tells us which brother); the second has

commas because the clause is extra, non-restrictive information

3. Mum's and Dad's cars

4. no — 'it's' always means 'it is' or 'it has'; possession is shown by 'its' with no apostrophe

5. the optional comma placed before 'and'/'or' in the final item of a list

8. Later that evening, the storm finally passed.

9. The film was long, but I still enjoyed it. (or use a semicolon/full stop)

10. A, B, C and E (its and 1990s are correctly unapostrophed; it's always means it is/has; Charles's correctly shows singular possession; only D is false — possessive pronouns never take an apostrophe)

13. witches'

14. Despite the rain, the match, a very important one, continued.

15. men's

Homework — Answers

Easy / Standard

1. boy's

2. bird's

3. isn't

4. A — the man's hat (mans' and mans are wrong; a comma never replaces an apostrophe)

5. you're

6. I need milk, eggs and bread.

7. He wore a coat, hat, scarf and gloves.

8. man's

9. A, C and D (the doctor's, He's and Amy's are all correctly used; B should be "doctor's" for one doctor, E is missing the apostrophe)

10. missing letters (contraction of 'will not')

11. we'll

12. No, thank you, I'm full. (or: No, thank you. I'm full.)

13. doctor's

14. he's

15. Before dinner, we washed our hands.

Standard

1. three days' rest

2. a moment's peace

3. its

4. It's

5. I love you, Mum.

6. The necklace, which she inherited from her grandmother, was priceless.

7. A, C and E (all use commas correctly to set off extra, non-essential relative clauses; B and D are restrictive clauses with no commas)

8. Chris's (or Chris')

9. The match ended; the crowd cheered.

10. After a while, everyone calmed down.

11. without a comma before 'and', it could wrongly suggest the twins are a clown and a magician; the comma makes clear they are separate guests

12. no commas because 'that she inherited from her grandmother' identifies which necklace — it is essential/defining information

13. we'd — it looks identical to the contraction for 'we had'; context tells you which is meant

14. buses' engines

15. no comma is needed before 'as well' at the end of a sentence in modern usage

Standard / Advanced

1. Thomas's (or Thomas')

2. Sam and Ella's project

3. Sam's and Ella's bikes

4. no — 'its' is only ever possessive; the contraction of 'it is'/'it has' is 'it's'

5. the Oxford (serial) comma

6. The girls' bags were left on the bus's roof.

7. children's

8. Without warning, the fire alarm went off.

9. The shop was shut, so we went home.

10. A, B, C and E (its and CDs/1980s are correctly unapostrophed; it's always means it is/has; Thomas's correctly shows singular possession; only D is false — possessive pronouns never take an apostrophe)

11. the class of '05

12. the first has no commas because the clause is defining/restrictive (tells us which players); the second has commas because the clause gives extra, non-restrictive information

13. foxes'

14. After the whistle blew, the players, exhausted after the long match, walked off.

15. women's